RABB, MAXWELL M.: PAPERS, 1939-1989;
Spot-Reviewed Materials Relating to Civil Rights

Accession Nos. 03-6 & 03-6/1
Processed by DJH, HP
Date Completed: January 2006

Scope and Content Note

The Maxwell M. Rabb Papers, which contain over 30,000 pages of materials, have been searched by the Eisenhower Library staff for items relating to civil rights. We have photocopied and opened for research, approximately seven thousand pages of documents and placed them in folders bearing the titles of the files in which the original documents reside. The photocopies are organized parallel to the order of the Rabb papers as received by the Library. When fully processed, the complete Rabb collection may be arranged in a scheme that differs from its current, temporary arrangement. However, this “artificial” (as it were) spot-reviewed civil rights project will continue to be made available to scholars after the entire Rabb collection has been processed.

Although there is a small case file relating to Native Americans, the bulk of this material concerns African-American and Jewish matters. In our review we copied everything relating to Black civil rights and African-American organizations and individuals. When reviewing Jewish files we selected documents involving evidence of discrimination, anti-Semitism, and specific civil rights problems. Routine administrative contacts with Jewish organizations and documents on U.S.-Israeli relations were generally not selected.

Types of documentation in this collection include correspondence, memoranda, notes, reports, speeches, news clippings, newspapers, newsletters, booklets, bulletins, press releases, minutes of meetings, messages, statements, articles, posters, and publications. Some of the topics covered are integration of military facilities, including Naval shipyards and Veterans Administration hospitals, the visit by the USS Midway to South Africa in 1955, the 1952 campaign, the Black vote, accomplishments of the Eisenhower Administration in the area of civil rights, and the work of the President’s Committee on Government Contracts. There are files relating to minority issues in the 1952 campaign, Black and Jewish appointments to positions in the Eisenhower Administration, segregation in housing as well as on common carriers and at airports, integration efforts in the District of Columbia, and school desegregation. The Rabb Papers contain files relating to the work of the NAACP, the National Urban League, the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, and B’nai B’rith.

While serving in the White House, Rabb collected a sampling of “right-wing” or “fringe” publications, clippings, and articles, which were anti-Semitic, anti-Black, anti-integration, anti-United Nations, and anti-Communist. There are also a few reports and articles which evaluate these items.

Rabb corresponded with a wide variety of individuals on the subject of civil rights. These correspondents include Lester Granger, Executive Director of the National Urban League, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Val Washington, director of the Minorities Division of the RNC, Jacob Seidenberg, E. Frederic Morrow, administrator of the Special Projects Group at the White House, Julius Klein, Bernard Katzen, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Roy Wilkins, Executive Secretary of the NAACP, Senator Homer Ferguson, Norman Thomas, Albert M. Cole, Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, and Senator Jacob Javits.

The spot-reviewed material spans the period from 1950 to 1957 with the bulk of the files covering 1954-56.

This project was undertaken in an effort to meet the needs of scholars working on the popular subject of civil rights. Please keep in mind that the work was subject to time constraints; therefore, a detailed search of the full Rabb collection after it has been fully processed will undoubtedly turn up additional civil rights materials. The Library hopes, though, that this partial, interim measure will be of considerable value to researchers in the short term.
